

Credits from gaining a driver's licence

It is possible to gain credits when getting a driver's licence.

- 2 credits Level 1- passing learner licence theory test
- 4 credits Level 2 – gaining a restricted licence
- 2 credits Level 2 – gaining a full licence.

How can you track your child's NCEA performance?

- Reports and parent interviews with progress totals from Term Two
- 'Family Connection' – online updates via the College parent portal
- Student NZQA log on with updates from April onwards
- Result notice from NZQA in January

New Zealand Scholarship

- Prestigious awards for the most able and designed to satisfy their intellectual needs - a special feature of New Zealand education for NCEA and Cambridge candidates.
- Financial awards (ranging from $500 per single subject payment to $10,000 each year for three years for Premier Scholars).
- Taken as additional examinations alongside NCEA or Cambridge in November.
- Preparation and enrichment in Scholarship tutorial groups and Scholars' Academy throughout the year.

To calculate an NCEA rank score:

- Based on the student's 80 best credits in University Entrance achieved over a maximum of five subjects.
- Approved subjects at Level 3 (or higher), and weighted by the level of achievement.
- The scores awarded are: four points for Excellence, three points for Merit and two for Achieved.
- The maximum possible score is 320.
- A maximum of 24 credits in each subject may be counted.

At University of Auckland:

- Bachelor of Arts requires 150 points
- Bachelor of Science (Bio Med) 280 points

Other things to consider

- Student responsibility for learning is critical for NCEA success.
- Pathways and targets should be identified and followed
- Individual strengths and preferences need consideration (e.g. external vs. internal standards, collecting Unit standards or Achievement standards, vocational vs. academic, Scholarship preparation).
- Numeracy and Literacy proficiency is essential.
- Quality over quantity (e.g. University of Auckland rank score points).

"NCEA has provided me with a pathway where I can reach my full potential in whatever field I choose. It is challenging, rewarding and adaptable to each and every student."

NCEA

What is NCEA?

- National qualifications that replaced School Certificate, Sixth Form Certificate and Bursary in 2002
- Part of the National Qualifications Framework (NQF)
- Derived from the New Zealand Curriculum
- Standards-based qualifications that measure performance against pre-set standards

How is NCEA assessed?

- Courses are assessed in separate parts
- Each assessment part is called a standard
- Each standard is worth credits
- Credits are gathered to achieve a qualification at NCEA Level 1, Level 2 or Level 3

What are NCEA standards?

Standards are a summary of the knowledge, understanding and skills that students must demonstrate to achieve the standard.

How do standards combine in a course?

- Courses may combine internally assessed standards (done at the school) and externally assessed standards (examined in the end of year NZQA exams) or be only internally assessed.
- Courses may combine Unit Standards or Achievement Standards.
- Each course will typically offer a total of 20-24 credits from standards carrying 2-12 credits each.

"I chose this pathway as it allowed me to develop my analytical and critical thinking skills."

Unit Standards and Achievement Standards

Unit Standards

Are all internally assessed and usually have only two possible levels of achievement: Achieved or Not Achieved ('Pass' or 'Fail')
Some Unit Standards now have Merit and Excellence grades

Achievement Standards

Can be internally or externally assessed and have four possible levels of achievement:

Excellence	(Two steps above Achieved)
Merit	(One step above Achieved)
Achieved
Not Achieved

What is required to achieve each NCEA Level?

For Level One (Year 11) completion

60 credits plus:

- 10 literacy credits (reading and writing) in English or Te Reo Maori
- 10 numeracy credits

For Level Two (Year 12) completion

80 credits including:

- 60 credits at Level 2
- 20 credits carried over from Level 1

For Level Three (Year 13) completion

80 credits including:

- 60 credits at Level 3
- 20 credits carried over from Level 2

(Note: These totals are the minimum number required to complete each level)
